

John Kelley
Manager, External Affairs
Georgia Power Company

John Kelley is Manager of External Affairs for Georgia Power's Atlanta Region. A native of Augusta, GA, he earned his B.B.A. from Savannah State University and his M.P.A. from Georgia Southern University. John manages and develops external strategies for the Metro Atlanta area. In addition, he manages and provides work direction to the regions external team. He has build and maintains strong professional and personal relationships with elected officials, statewide leaders, the Georgia Public Service Commission, and leaderships of both local and national organizations.

His positions held with Georgia Power includes; Manager of Skills Training, Region Comptroller, Senior Urban Advisor and Senior Regulatory Advisor. Active on several community organization boards, John is pass chairman of the Committee for a Better Atlanta and recently served as chairman of the South Dekalb Business Incubator. John and his wife, Michelle, resides in Peachtree City.